

Denver Health Orthopaedic Trauma Fellowship Overview

What is Denver Health? Denver Health is a 555 bed level 1 trauma center located in downtown Denver. Established in 1860, Denver Health operates as a safety net hospital for the region and is the main teaching affiliate of the University of Colorado. There are 8 CU ortho residents rotating at the hospital and one PGY4 from Navy residency in San Diego.

Fellow responsibilities: The fellow holds attending designation at Denver Health and will take independent call every 8th weekday and weekend. The fellow will attend morning fracture conference and weekly didactic lectures. The fellow will give 2 to 3 didactic presentations during their year. The fellow will operate a minimum of four days a week. There are 2 ortho trauma rooms every day and the fellow has their pick of the cases. One day a week will be dedicated to a half-day of research and a half-day of clinic. The fellow will attend the annual Orthopaedic Trauma Association meeting and may attend other meetings if they desire.

Research: The department has a full-time research fellow and coordinator to assist in research projects. The orthopaedic trauma fellow must publish one paper and/or one review paper or textbook chapter.

Benefits: PGY6 at University of Colorado, $68,170 for 2017-2018. Medical, dental, vision, disability and life insurance are provided as well as 18 days of vacation and 6 paid holidays.

2017-2018 fellowcase log – 1045 total cases:

